

YOUR TRUSTED HEALTHCARE NEWS PARTNER FOR OVER 35 YEARS

ModernHealthcare.com

Follow
Modern Healthcare
on Twitter

CLICK HERE

Join, Follow & Connect

- Home
- News
- Topics
- Research
- Opinion
- Blogs
- Recognition
- Videos & Webinars
- Events
- Marketplace
- Jobs

My target is zero infections.

Join the conversation

Webinar

A Closer Look at
Medicare ACOs

Dec. 15 | 10 am Central

Waller Lansden.

FREE
REGISTRATION

Healthcare Business News

Perminova names Collins president, CEO

By Christine LaFave Grace

Posted: November 30, 2011 - 12:00 pm ET

Tags: Executives, Information Technology

Perminova, a La Jolla, Calif.-based developer of online software for cardiology centers, has named Craig Collins president and CEO.

Collins

Collins, 51, will be charged with helping secure venture capital funding for the company and launching products nationwide, according to a Perminova spokesman. Before joining Perminova, Collins founded and was president and CEO of PetriTech, an advanced materials technology company. He also previously was vice president of marketing for a division of Cardinal Health, according to a Perminova news release.

Among Perminova's cloud-based software offerings is a module to manage scheduling, work flow and billing associated with electrophysiological procedures.

This Week's Issue

Table of Contents
Digital Edition
Subscribe

- ▶ Editorial: No matter the data, some always find room for doubt
- ▶ Push under way to make rural clinics eligible for incentive payments
- ▶ N.Y. report could have execs, boards on edge
- ▶ Largest patient-satisfaction measurement firms

Related Articles

More in:

- ▶ Bisognano: Innovation a community effort
- ▶ TriZetto names Samec CTO
- ▶ In Calif., robot boosts care access

More Information Technology Articles »

Advertisement | View Media Kit

Financial Guidance for Healthcare Professionals

You'll answer a lot of important